

We are a successful and growing systems specialist within the European space technology group OHB Technology AG, where over 1,500 highly qualified specialists develop and produce space technologies in Germany, the rest of Europe and the United States.

For our national and international geostationary satellite programmes, we are currently seeking for immediate commencement a

Mechanics Technical Responsible Geostationary Satellite Programme (m/f)
(Code Number 492303)

Your specific duties will be:

- Mechanical system engineering of a project for development and integration of a geostationary satellite
- Coordination of all technical activities related to the satellite subsystems structure, thermal and chemical Propulsion
- In charge of design and analysis for these subsystems, interface control, generation and maintenance of specifications and design descriptions, support to definition of satellite level AIV plan including generation of test specifications as well as subcontractor management
- Lead a group of subsystem engineers
- Report directly to the project's technical responsible

Your background:

You have a degree in engineering, physics or a comparable qualification. You have several years of professional experience as mechanics system engineer in the space industry or in a similar position. Ideally, you have already worked on DLR or ESA satellite development projects.

You are accustomed to work in teams and make decisions. Furthermore you are a skilled and confident negotiator and possess well-developed communication skills. Besides you have excellent conceptual and analytical skills as well as a good knowledge of process management/analysis. Very important is also a fluent written and spoken English.

We offer you an interesting and varied position in a modern high-tech company. Have we aroused your interest? If so, we would be pleased to receive your detailed application by e-mail stating your salary expectations and the code number above.

OHB-System AG
Human Resources
Universitätsallee 27-29
28359 Bremen
E-mail: career@ohb-system.de www.ohb-technology.de